

Seabird Monitoring Programme Reports

© Tim Dunn

Contents

1. Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: latest report
2. Previous reports

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: latest report

The latest results from the Seabird Monitoring Programme (Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 1986–2023, the annual report of the Seabird Monitoring Programme) were published on 21 November 2024.

Top ↑

Previous reports

The report has been published online since 2009. Details of the previous reports are available through The National Archives website.

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 1986–2019 Report \(published 2021\)

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 1986–2018 Report \(published 2020\)

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 1986–2015 Report

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 1986–2014 Report

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 1986–2013 Report

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 1986–2012 Report

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 2012 Report \(provides results up to the year 2011\)

We use cookies to track usage of our site. Details of these can be found in our Cookie Policy. You may choose to decline all tracking cookies, but if you do some key features may not work as expected.

Seabird Population Trends and Causes of Change: 2010 Report \(provides results up to the year 2009\)

Prior to 2009, these trends were published in 'Seabird numbers and breeding success in Britain and Ireland'. Copies of these reports are available on JNCC's Resource Hub.

Top ↑

Published: Thursday, November 21, 2024.

© Joint Nature Conservation Committee, Quay House, 2 East Station Road, Fletton Quays, Peterborough, PE2 8YY

Tel: 01733 562626 Fax: 01733 555948. Contact us: Enquiry form

JNCC SUPPORT CO. Registered in England and Wales. Company no. 05380206. Registered office as above

We use cookies to track usage of our site. Details of these can be found on our Cookie Policy. You may choose to but if you do some key features may not work as expected.