[04:25] - As you send potentially navy ships, your navy ships back into that area, many will consider that provocative. Are you worried, Mr. President, about where this goes? What is your worst-case scenario with this conflict?

Petro Poroshenko: This is the Ukrainian water: both Ukrainian and Russian water – both Kerch Strait and Azov Sea, and our military vessel under the law and under the international agreement do not have, do not need to ask any permission or any other form of approval from the Russian Federation, especially when Russia illegally occupied the Crimea.
